Aug 13/1988

I wish to report an unusual sighting, taking place Aug 13, 1988 in the southwest corner of Delwood Basin along the shoreline. This bird could have been a wandering tattler in winter plumage.

While viewing a Lesser Yellowlegs feeding, through my 25x35 binos at a distance of about 35 yards, a bird (of approximately the same size - about $10\frac{1}{2}$ inches) flew into view and landed beside it. Size-wise, there was little to choose between the two except this bird was slightly heftier. (size and contour as well)

At first, I thought it to be a Yellowlegs as well as it strutted about in similar fashion. I checked the upperparts for the "spotting" but instead, found that they appeared coarsely streaked dark slate gray. I checked them again and they still appeared dark slate gray. At this point, I began to think that this was not a Yellowlegs.

To my astonishment then, the bird then started pumping up and down as per Spotted Sandpipers, but it seemed much larger and with darker upperparts.

As the bird moved about, I looked for other features. The bird's legs were yellowish but paler than the Yellowlegs'. From the knee joint down, the bird's legs were the same length as the Yellowlegs', but from the knee joint up, they were very short. I could discern a dark gray wash which extended down the side of the flank.

The bill seemed as long as a Yellowlegs', slightly chunkier and appeared dark but I was 35 yards away. The breast I did not see clearly at all. I did not see the bird in flight at all. The bird was very active and walked around in a circular pattern feeding.

After viewing the bird for about 15 seconds, it walked very quickly behind a low grassy ridge, disappearing from view. I attempted to find the bird again, didn't, but found a Spotted Sandpiper further up the shore. The Spotted had its winter shoulder bar on but, if there was a gray wash down the flank, it wasn't visible.

The size, colour of the upperparts and gray wash down the flanks all indicate Wandering Tattler. I have seen Spotted Sandpipers in winter plumage before and, in a subsequent visit to Delmead, studied them again. To me, the upperparts of the Spotted Sandpiper are grayish-brown, noticeably paler than the dark slate-gray upperparts of this bird. The largest Spotted Sandpiper at Delmead would have been 8" (at the most). The Yellowlegs used to compare the size of the unusual bird was 10" at least, and, further, while there are lots of young Yellowlegs around, I still have yet to see one that was not larger than a Spotted Sandpiper.

I do not recall clearly the shape of the breast and throat area, which is important. The extreme activity of the bird also made it difficult to view these parts. I believe I did see them initially and that they appeared grayish at that time, but I cannot say that positively. Also, I did not notice any "shoulder bar" on this bird, but did notice that the noticeable gray wash extended noticeably down the ~~upper~~ flanks.

~~On~~ Highlights - an infusion of migrating warblers about noon as per come report with Wilson's as most numerous.

~~On~~ - Longhorn sloughs still flooded from recent heavy rains (note only one "deep"). Waterfowl numbers increasing however. A very early lone Lapland Longspur along a road in front of the large slough just north of Railway Slough, and a Common Nighthawk "hawking" overwater with good numbers of Black Terns highlighted the trip.

~~On~~ - Immature Peregrine sailed south over the house in the AM. At almost the same time, a Peregrine rose grayish looking ~~from~~ through the night sky on ~~the~~ 10/10/38. It off the ground, wings were pointed and tail mildly barred.

Remains of an ~~unidentified~~ were also found this day. It appears the bird flew into a window and was killed or was blown out and then found by a cat.

~~10/10/84~~ Highlight - L. white ~~30/10/84~~

Solid "sick" call heard as goshawk-size bird flew from deciduous forest edge to nearby lower, cinnamon-coloured ramp was slightly discernible even though viewed as the bird was flying away.

~~10/10/84~~ ~~10/10/84~~ ~~10/10/84~~ feeding on berries of Haskin Cherry in front of house. Distance observed - 10 feet

~~10/10/84~~ Highlights - a lone Dunlin and good numbers (100+) of Belt Sandpipers.

A ~~10/10/84~~ ~~10/10/84~~ attracted the shorebirds but was unsuccessful in making a kill.

Note also, 1, and probably 2 Red-necked Phalaropes in full winter plumage.

~~10/10/84~~ "dark cap and nape; and call all clearly perceived
